

This Kenilworth home possessed a certain charm and graciousness befitting a 100-year-old dwelling. The kitchen remodel had to have the same qualities. Designers Wendy Yang and John Myefski first chose a cabinet finish that had an aged look and added diamond-patterned leaded glass to two cabinets to replicate an architectural feature on the front façade of the house. Comfort is supplied through the wide work aisles and strategically located appliances. Finally, small appliances are hidden away in the spacious storage cabinets to keep the countertops free from clutter and pleasing to guests' eyes.
